

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Contents and its key are supplied in different procedures. License management program authenticates telephone-integrated terminal device and authenticates first server or second server. Server LCM controls the reception of contents and key transmission requests and of data for identifying first server or second server. If data for identifying first server are received, contents and its key are received from first server in a procedure corresponding to first server. If data for identifying second server are received, contents and its key are received from second server in a procedure corresponding to second server. Server LCM controls the transmission of contents and its key to telephone-integrated terminal device.